What is the aim of this scholarship program?

The Lorna Earl and William Woodberry (LEWW) Scholarship Program was established to encourage Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students to further their education and to contribute to the development of Indigenous peoples' education. The LEWW Scholarships provides the opportunity for Indigenous students experiencing financial difficulties to study at universities in New South Wales.

Five Scholarships valued at up to $15,000 per annum, will be offered in 2021 (and will run the course of the individual's degree). The LEWW fund was set up upon a bequest from the estate of Lorna May Woodberry. Good2Give is the Trustee of LEWW and Aurora is responsible for the administration and delivery of the scholarships.

The scholarship has immensely changed my life both academically and personally in ways I could never have hoped for. The financial support allowed me to focus my time solely on my studies and achieve the marks I know that I am capable of, especially during COVID, where I was forced out of my university's area and thus my academic support network. This scholarship granted me with peace of mind in challenging times
